JAMIE CARBERT, CPHI(C)

Jamie Carbert is a public health inspector based in Alberta. She became certified in 2014. Currently, she is in the Safe Food program, with part of her time put towards following up with notifiable enteric diseases. She is passionate about the Environmental Public Health profession and has enjoyed volunteering in various capacities, including the 2018 CIPHI AB Branch conference and being a guest lecturer at a local university.

She is excited to be a board member of the Environmental Health Foundation of Canada and assisting with advancing this important branch of CIPHI.

On her spare time, Jamie likes spending time with her family, playing soccer, or running stairs, and reading a good book.
