

Dear Awards Committee of CIPHI's Environmental Health Foundation of Canada:

I am pleased to nominate Dr. Fatih Sekercioglu for the Lilli Ann Zahara Public Health Education Award. Dr. Sekercioglu has been an environmental health practitioner for 20 years and has been recognized both nationally and internationally as a scholar and public health professional.

He displays the highest level of dedication, commitment, inspiration, and leadership in the field of environmental health, particularly with a focus on public health education. He published several articles which provided a unique professional development resource for environmental public health professionals over the past five years as a professor at Toronto Metropolitan University. He plays an integral role in educating new professionals.

Furthermore, he participates in volunteer activities in organizations such as the Canadian Institute of Public Health Inspectors and the National Environmental Health Association (NEHA). Recently he co-authored a policy statement for the NEHA addressing the sale and distribution of raw milk which has been a considerable educational material for public health professionals and the public.

Dr. Fatih Sekercioglu's consistent dedication to public health, and continued work and enthusiasm for issues of public health significance, without a doubt, make him an ideal candidate for this award. Thank you in advance for considering Fatih for this award.

Sincerely,
Anne-Maria Korpikoski
